

John W. King, Jr. Personal Biography

John W. King, Jr. is a native Washingtonian, having lived in the Washington D.C. area during his formative years, attending St. John's College High School, in Washington, DC, before moving to Springfield, Massachusetts to finish high school.

John is married to Kimberly Black King and they currently live in Prince George's County, Maryland, with their two children, Justin and Erin. Kimberly is a Senior Vice President for Housing and Real Estate at Volunteers of America, based in Alexandria, Virginia.

John is a licensed attorney and brings over (20) twenty years of legal, business, and real estate experience.

Prior to becoming an attorney, John was an investment banker with several large national investment banks in New York, including Smith Barney, JPMorgan Chase and Advest Securities. During his time in banking, John assisted clients issuing taxable and tax-exempt debt and had general execution responsibility for over $2.0 billion in bond issuance. John was responsible for due diligence, document drafting and review, quantitative analysis, and coordinating activities of issuer, trustee, bond insurer, credit rating agency for all senior and co-managed transactions.

After law school, John worked at a large national law firm, White and Case, LLP. During his time at White and Case, Mr. King worked in the London and New York office and served as an Associate in the Corporate and Financial Services Department, where he was involved in several significant corporate transactions for the firm, including: representation of private equity fund in $150MM high yield bond offering, $250MM privatization of airport assets of Republic of South Africa, $200MM equity offering for a Turkey based bank, just to name a few.

John has recently been in private practice and is the Managing Partner of the King Law Firm. John has extensive experience with corporate transactions, real estate, foreclosure and bankruptcy matters. In particular, he represents individuals, small businesses, and non-profits on complex commercial litigation matters, individual real estate investors, commercial creditors, developers, and general contractors. Mr. King has a broad background in the real estate markets, representing countless parties in purchases, refinances, equity participation, foreclosure and bankruptcy matters before state and federal courts, including the United States Bankruptcy courts.

John is also the owner and operator of a full service real estate settlement firm, Select Title and Escrow, LLC, which represents commercial and residential owners in refinance and purchase transactions throughout DC, MD and VA. Select is also an agent for Security Title Insurance Corporation, a national underwriter of title insurance, based in Baltimore, Maryland.

John holds a B.A. in Economics from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, an MPA in Finance from New York University and a J.D. from Fordham University School of Law.

John is also a member in good standing of the following courts: the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Columbia, the State of New Jersey, the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, and the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of New Jersey.